America’s reliance on private and public health insurance has had enormous effects on health care availability and outcomes. Join us for a discussion of how evolving health care funding policies have affected and will affect American health care.

March 27, 2017, 7:00 - 8:30 pm
Paff Auditorium, Shepard Building
80 Washington Street, Providence, RI

America’s reliance on private and public health insurance has had enormous effects on health care availability and outcomes. Join us for a discussion of how evolving health care funding policies have affected and will affect American health care.

SPEAKER

Gerald Friedman, Ph.D.
Professor of Economics, Department of Economics
University of Massachusetts Amherst

Dr. Friedman’s scholarship includes economic history, labor economics, and health economics. He is the author of several books and numerous articles concerning labor and economic history, slavery, and the evolution of economic thought, and has prepared studies of health care financing for several states and the 2016 Sanders presidential campaign.

DISCUSSANTS

Oliver T. Fein, M.D.
Professor of Clinical Medicine/Professor of Clinical Healthcare Policy and Research, Weill Cornell Medical College, Cornell University

Dr. Fein, a lifetime advocate for health reform and community access to health care, was the 2009 President of Physicians for a National Health Program, and in 2010, helped establish the Weill Cornell Center for Human Rights. Dr. Fein received the 2015 Award for Excellence from the American Public Health Association.

Betty Rambur, Ph.D., R.N., F.A.A.N.
Routhier Chair and Professor of Nursing, College of Nursing, University of Rhode Island

Dr. Rambur is former dean of Nursing and Health Science at the University of Vermont and former member of the Green Mountain Care Board. Among her many publications is Health Care Finance, Economics, and Policy for Nurses: A Foundational Guide. She is a Fellow of the American Academy of Nursing. She joined the faculty of URI’s College of Nursing in 2016.

URI co-sponsors include the Academic Health Collaborative, Department of Economics, Department of Political Science, Institute for Integrated Health and Innovation, Schmidt Labor Research Center, and the Social Science Institute for Research, Education and Policy. The co-sponsors thank the RI Chapter of Physicians for a National Health Program for its participation.

Contact the Schmidt Labor Research Center at lrc@etal.uri.edu with questions. Validated parking is available at the RI Convention Center Garage. Be sure to bring parking garage ticket to event for validation.