Have You Ever

Objective:

Helps students get to know each other, get up and move around, and offer information that they feel comfortable sharing.

Instructions:

Ask the students to form a circle with their chairs. You begin in the center of the circle (standing, without a seat) and ask a “Have you ever?” question (that you can answer yes to). Everyone that can answer yes moves from their chair to an open chair. There will be one person left without a place to sit so they go to the middle and ask the next question. The game continues until everyone has been in the middle at least once.

Examples:

Have you ever been to a foreign country?
Have you ever eaten at the Ram’s Den?
Have you ever been to a concert?

Debriefing:

Were you surprised by how many people have done certain things/ were you surprised if you were the only person to do something?
