

Sunday, November 5, 2017

4 - 7 pm

*Center for Biotechnology and Life Sciences, URI
Kingston, RI*

From twenty-four volunteers on a dozen sites in one watershed, URI Watershed Watch now has more than 300 hundred volunteers monitoring hundreds of inland and coastal sites each year throughout Rhode Island and neighboring areas.

Join us, on Sunday, November 5th we celebrate not only our program success - but all of the hard work and dedication from our more than one thousand volunteers over the past THREE DECADES! And help us make it another 30 years. Everyone is invited: current and past volunteers and student staff, friends, families, Watershed Watch sponsors, supporters and partners.

We are hosting afternoon of socializing, music, refreshments (including a cash bar), displays from local watershed groups and exhibitors, and a chance to vote for and bid on paddles painted for our first Paddle Art contest. Tickets will be $20 per person. This fun event will allow us to reflect, plan, strengthen, and celebrate, while building program resources!

Mark your calendars now! Additional details coming soon and available on our website (<http://web.uri.edu/watershedwatch/>). Watch for your invitation coming in September - we are inviting everyone who's been part of URI Watershed Watch since it began! Event and program sponsors, exhibitors and donations are welcomed and encouraged (contact Elizabeth - eherron@uri.edu /401-874-4552 for details). Thirty years and going strong - thanks to all our volunteers and supporters!

THE UNIVERSITY
OF RHODE ISLAND
COOPERATIVE EXTENSION

THE UNIVERSITY
OF RHODE ISLAND
COLLEGE OF
THE ENVIRONMENT
AND LIFE SCIENCES