For Fair specific rules visit the URI 4-H website at uri.edu/4h
READ THE HEALTH REQUIREMENTS FOR YOUR SPECIES!!

WHY HAVE 4-H EXHIBITS?

- To recognize 4-H members for their achievements and provide feedback for them to grow.
- To provide a youth a goal to motivate them to achieve in their 4-H project work.
- To provide educational experiences for 4-H members not available in other 4-H programs.
- To provide the public a better understanding of 4-H work.
- Rewards serve as incentive to encourage further learning and growth through 4-H work.

GUIDELINES FOR ANIMAL COMPETITIONS

General

- 4-H rules will be followed by any 4-H show and any 4-H classes in open shows. Individual fairs may have additional requirements, classes and events so please read the individual fair guidelines carefully. The Animal Health for Fairs guide is online at uri.edu/4h.
- Deadlines stated for each event must be followed.
- 4-H will not assume responsibility for items stolen, damaged or lost.
- Interpretation of rules and decisions about questions not specifically covered in the rules are the responsibility of the fair superintendent of that division. If a situation cannot be resolved, the superintendent will first contact their 4-H Fair Committee, then if needed, the Fair Committee will contact the State 4-H Office.
- Behavior of Exhibitors: Participation in 4-H Exhibit Events is a chance to show the public the best of 4-H. No alcohol or drugs will be allowed, and actions must be cooperative and helpful. The 4-H Superintendent has the authority to take such disciplinary action as may be necessary to enforce such rules.
- Danish System: All participants receive awards based on the standard set for excellence for their age group. Youth compete against a standard not each other. All those that reach a level receive that award, therefore you may have multiple blues, in a class.
- Individual Comparison System: Participants are ranked in order. Not all are recognized. First place is selected in comparison with others competing. The best may be only slightly better or a great deal. All may be poor quality.
- Most 4-H exhibits use the Danish award system. Blue ribbons for 85-100 points (excellence), Red ribbons for 70-84 points (good to average), and White ribbons for under 70 points (needs improvement). Judges may, at their discretion, recommend green ribbons for exhibits that do not meet requirements for regular placings. The Individual Comparison system may also be used. This is at the discretion of the fair. Decisions of judges are final.

Member Eligibility

- The 4-H exhibitor must be enrolled as a Rhode Island 4-H member, special interest or 4-H school group during the current 4-H year (October 1 of last year to September 30 this year).
- Youth, age 5-7 as of January 1st of the current year, are considered Cloverbuds. Adding 4-H Cloverbud classes to district fairs and events is at the discretion of the chairperson/superintendent of the event. All Cloverbuds should receive green participation ribbons and should receive encouragement and positive feedback on how to improve and it is recommended that they are accompanied by a 4-H teen or adult when showing livestock.

Project Work

- All exhibits must be the result of the current year's work of the 4-H member exhibiting. The year includes the time from the previous year's event. 4-H members must do their own work to prepare their animal for show and show their own project animal. Members who manage someone else's animal must be sure that this is part of the agreement.

- All animals being shown must be owned by the 4-H member or managed by their species deadline. For managements they must be signed and filed in the 4-H Office before these deadlines. Keep copies you may be asked to show them at any fair.
- The assistance of adults must be limited to guidance and instruction.
- Adults grooming the animal will be considered a violation of this rule and may lead to forfeiture of awards. Members must show their own project animal at 4-H fairs.
- When a 4-H project animal is shown in a youth or open show, it should be clearly stated that the animal is owned or managed by the 4-H member.
- If a 4-H'er has two animals in the same class, another 4-H'er may assist with the 2nd animal.
- A general knowledge test may be given for all exhibitors.
- The Exhibitor is expected to care for his or her own animal while exhibiting or to make arrangements with another 4-H'er to care for his/her animals in the Exhibitor's absence. Animals should always have water. It is the Exhibitor's responsibility to clean out his/her area at completion of shows/fairs.
- It is the exhibitors responsibility to be on time to classes. If you will have a conflict, you must inform the chairperson before the start of the show to see if a resolution can be found.

Safety & Liability

- Adults may handle animals if the youth or animal is in danger.
- Animal exhibitors must be able to control their animals. The superintendent has the authority to disqualify a member from showing any animal that would present a danger or is unmanageable.
- Animals with any horns are not allowed. The ONLY exceptions to this rule are Working Steers, Horned Hereford heifers, Scottish Highlander heifers, Texas Longhorn heifers, sheep and dairy heifers under 5 months of age.
- Livestock exhibitors must always wear shoes and exhibitors should wear leather work boots if they are showing large animals and close toe shoes for showing rabbits, poultry or dogs.
- The URI CELS Cooperative Extension/State 4-H Office, 4-H Show Management, property owners, volunteers, and employees shall not be held liable for injury to or death of animals or persons or damage or theft of property of such. All participants and spectators enter the show grounds at their own risk. Only registered 4-H participants that have enrolled and agreed to the terms of liability on the member and volunteer enrollment may participate in 4-H projects.

Showmanship & Classes

- 4-H members are required to enter the showmanship (or fitting and showmanship) class of any 4-H animal show in which the member is entered. Classes will be divided by exhibitor age as of 1/1 of current year. A novice class may be offered. Novice Showmanship classes are learning experiences for beginners who have never shown that species of animal age 8-18. They will be novices for the entire current show season, when a novice class is offered. Showmanship generally is judged 60% on showing, 30% on fitting and 10% on showman appearance.
