Damon Rarick - An associate professor of German at URI, Damon Rarick specializes in teaching (and training others to teach) German for professional purposes. He is the recipient of his university’s Excellence in Teaching Award and two of his courses have been recognized as “Top 10” and “Top 25” courses in the country by the Educational Policy Improvement Center’s AP Best Practices Course Study in World Languages. He is currently collaborating on a new German textbook series and on a second research journal, the Journal of International Engineering Education, which will offer a new peer-reviewed research outlet for participants of this colloquium.