Biography: Brent K. Jesiek is an Associate Professor in the Schools of Engineering Education and Electrical and Computer Engineering at Purdue University. He holds a B.S. in Electrical Engineering from Michigan Tech and M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in Science and Technology Studies (STS) from Virginia Tech. Dr. Jesiek's research is focused on the lived experiences of engineers and other technical professionals, paying particular attention to geographic, disciplinary, historical, and other contextual variations in work practices and education.