Quote from Pfizer student “When I first started working at Pfizer, I spent a lot of time researching further education programs that would fit easily into the way I balance my work and personal life. The opportunity to have a classroom-like session once a week allowed me to get the hands-on experience that I was looking for at a pace where I could enjoy learning. Not only am I taking classes directly related to my career; I constantly find ways to establish the concepts I am learning in class.”
