Education

Ph.D.	2015	Human Development and Family Studies	Auburn University
M.S.	2010	Human Development and Family Studies	Auburn University
B.S.	2008	Psychology (Magna Cum Laude)	Barry University
A.A.	2006	Psychology (Highest Honors)	Miami-Dade College North Campus

Professional Experience

2021 – Present	Associate Professor, Department of Human Development and Family Science, University of Rhode Island.
2015 – 2021	Assistant Professor, Department of Human Development and Family Science, University of Rhode Island.
2011 – 2015	Graduate Research Assistant, Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Auburn University. Managed the data and developed research manuscripts for a project funded by the U.S Department of Agriculture (USDA) designed to prevent early adolescents from engaging in substance use.
Summer 2014	Graduate Research Assistant, Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Auburn University. Organized the data for a program funded by the U.S Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) designed to examine the effectiveness of community relationships and marriage education programs.

Graduate Research Assistant, Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Auburn University.

Assisted in the program assessment of a five-year evaluation project funded by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS). The purpose of this project was to educate adolescents about healthy relationships and how to avoid unhealthy relationships. Developed and co-authored manuscripts, constructed measures, managed the data, and assisted in overseeing the budget. Also co-taught the curriculum to school teachers who were to implement the program with their students.

Summer 2007

Undergraduate Research Assistant, Department of Brain and Cognitive Sciences, Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT).

Participated in a selective nine-week summer internship as part of the MIT Summer Research Program (MSRP) - a program aimed at promoting undergraduate students, especially students from disadvantaged backgrounds and under-represented minorities, to consider a research career in the fields of engineering and science. Developed a research project relating to the influence of the brain on human development and presented this project at the Annual Biomedical Research Conference for Minority Students (ABRCMS).

Undergraduate trainee for the Minority Access to Research Careers (MARC U*STAR) program, Department of Psychology, Barry University.

The MARC program is a selective program funded by the Division of the National Institute of General Medical Sciences (NIGMS) of the National Institutes of Health (NIH). This program takes ethnic minority undergraduate students who have excelled academically and are interested in pursuing an academic career. I was the only student selected for this program in 2006. Through this program I learned how to develop protocols; and prepare abstracts, poster presentations, and research articles. I also participated in a research project funded by NIGMS focusing on ethnic identity among adolescents. I co-authored a poster presentation on ethnic identity and biculturalism from this research which was presented at the Society for Research on Identity Formation (SRIF).

National and State Honors and Awards

Master's Student Research Award, Society for Research on Identity Formation (SRIF), 2011.

Young Scholars Award, Society for Research on Adolescence, 2008.

Millennium Scholars Award, Society for Research in Child Development, 2007.

Outstanding Student Paper Award in Social Sciences, Florida Academy of Sciences, 2007.

University Honors and Awards

Nominated for the Excellence in General Education Award, Office of Innovation in General Education, University of Rhode Island, 2020.

Distinguished Dissertation Award, College of Human Sciences, Auburn University, 2016.

Outstanding Individual Award for Oral Presentation in Social Sciences, Research Week, Auburn University, 2014.

Merriwether Fellowship, Graduate School, Auburn University, 2012 – 2013 (one of four Auburn University graduate students to receive this university wide fellowship).

Preparing Future Faculty Fellow. The Biggio Center for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning, Auburn University, 2011 – 2012 (The Preparing Future Faculty (PFF) Program at Auburn University is a selective program for students who have shown academic promise and who intend to pursue a career in academia. I was one of only 25 graduate students selected to take part in this program for 2011-2012. The PFF program included a series of workshops on teaching, research, and grants designed to prepare graduate students for an academic career).

Outstanding Master's Student, Graduate School, Auburn University, 2009 – 2010 (one of ten Auburn University graduate students to receive this university wide award).

Outstanding Undergraduate Student, Department of Psychology, Barry University, 2008 (one of two Barry University students to receive this departmental award).
