HUZZAH! The Boston Tea Party was the “single most important event leading up to the American Revolution.” Through engaging reenactments and a thrilling tour experience, the Boston Tea Party Ships & Museum brings this brave protest to life. Here, Samuel Adams and the Sons of Liberty will lead you in a reenactment of the historic town meeting held just hours before the Boston Tea Party. Storm down to Griffin’s Wharf and destroy the Crown’s tea, make your escape from the wharf and learn how the Boston Tea Party sparked the American Revolution as you are surrounded by the actions and sounds of the award-winning, multisensory film, Let It Begin Here. Your adventure continues as you step into Abigail’s Tea Room for a scrumptious lunch. You’ll also have the opportunity to sample the five varieties of tea that were destroyed during the Boston Tea Party. The comfortable charm of another era, wonderful waterfront and skyline views and a friendly welcome from colonial tea ladies make this the perfect place for a relaxing break. Later, we will enjoy time on our own at Boston’s famous Faneuil Hall Marketplace. Browse through over 70 unique, locally loved and nationally recognized shops. This is one trip you won’t want to miss!
