

Middle Passage
Watercolor by Mark Burnham

Anchored in Rhode Island: The Slave Trade & Reckoning with Our Past [1-Day Seminar]

Saturday, October 14th, 9:30 am to 3:00 pm
Admission: Adults-$40; Students & Seniors-$25;
Members-Free On-line Pre-registration Required

This Smith's Castle seminar will bring together local scholars and authors to share the history of enslavement in Rhode Island, offer insights into the legacy of slavery's grasp on the narrative of our national and state history and current society, and recognize the work that still needs to be done to ensure all Americans are equal in law and opportunity.

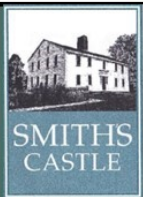

This event was made possible by the generosity of the North Kingstown Arts Council, and the volunteers and staff of the Cocumscussoc Association.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Hannah Francis, University of Rhode Island
Charlotte Carrington-Farmer, Roger Williams University
Joanne Pope-Melish, Professor Emeritus of History, University of Kentucky

DISCUSSION LEADERS & PARTICIPANTS

Charles Roberts, Executive Director, Rhode Island Slave History Medallion Project
Lorén Spears, Executive Director, Tomaquag Museum
Mack Scott, Ruth Simmons Center on Slavery & Justice
G. Timothy Cranston, North Kingstown Town Historian
John B. Dower and Robert A. Geake, Public Historians

SMITH'S CASTLE
55 Richard Smith Drive, North Kingstown, RI 02852
Phone: (401) 294-3521 Website: www.smithscastle.org

