RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Director, Pediatric and Adolescent Anxiety Lab (PAALs) September, 2004-present
Department of Psychology, University of Rhode Island

I supervise, mentor, and advise students in the conduct of research on anxiety, broadly defined. In this lab, we have conducted research on topics including prevention of childhood anxiety, childhood trauma and implications for later emotional and physical health, child resiliency, and other anxiety-related topics.

Research and Clinical Training Director 1997-2000
Department of Psychology, Temple University

I completed research and provided supervision on a NIMH-funded research project investigating the role of psychosocial factors in the onset and course of bipolar spectrum disorders. I was responsible for training and supervising graduate students and research assistants in the use of a structured diagnostic interview (a modified version of the Schedule for Affective Disorders and Schizophrenia). In addition, I oversaw the day-to-day workings of the research project.

Principal Investigator: Lauren B. Alloy, Ph.D.

Statistical Consultant 1995-1996
Temple University

I provided statistical support for seven Temple University graduate students. I was involved in assisting students in the design and methodology of their research projects (four Master's theses and three dissertations) as well as in setting up data sets, running statistical procedures, and interpreting and writing up results and conclusions.

Research Assistant 1992-1996
Child and Adolescent Anxiety Disorders Clinic, Temple University

My duties included data management, in which I was responsible for management, analysis, and interpretation of a large data set collected over a seven-year NIMH-funded study of anxiety-disordered children. I was involved in the coordination of statistical analyses for grant reports and individual projects, data entry, and the training of additional data personnel.

Principal Investigator: Philip C. Kendall, Ph.D.

Experimenter 1990-1992
Department of Psychology, Connecticut College

Projects in which I was the primary investigator have included the following:

The effect of context on perceptions of sexual intentions (Supervisor: Stuart Vyse, Ph.D.)

The effect of gender, weight, and food selection on perceptions of masculinity, femininity, and stereotypical traits associated with obesity (Supervisor: Joan Chrisler, Ph.D.)

Research Assistant 1989-1990
Department of Psychology, Franklin and Marshall College

I assisted in the scale development and collection of data in research on self perceptions.

Supervisor: Kevin McKillop, Ph.D.

Experimenter 1989-1990
Department of Psychology, Franklin and Marshall College

Projects in which I was the primary investigator included:

The effect of food selection on perceptions of masculinity and femininity (Supervisor: Kevin McKillop, Ph.D.)

 The effect of situation type on perceptions of sexual intentions (Supervisor: Jack Heller, Ph.D.)
 Concrete and abstract identity/different relations in adult rhesus macaques (Supervisor: Roger Thompson, Ph.D.)

CLINICAL EXPERIENCE

Director and Clinical Supervisor Child Anxiety Program, Psychological Consultation Center, University of Rhode Island I am the Director of the Child Anxiety Program, a program within the research and training clinic of the Clinical Psychology Program at the University of Rhode Island. I supervise student therapists in the application of cognitive-behavioral treatments to children with anxiety disorders. The Child Anxiety Program has received an excellent reputation in RI and Southeastern CT as evidenced by a waiting list that ranges from 6 months to a year. The Child Anxiety Program serves approximately 40-50 children per year.	September, 2004 - present
Associate in Group Therapy Practice; Director of Anxiety Program Center for Psychological Services , Ardmore, PA	February, 2002-June, 2003
Clinical Supervisor Child and Adolescent Anxiety Disorders Clinic , Temple University I was the primary clinical supervisor for three advanced graduate students in clinical psychology who were implementing an NIMH-funded cognitive-behavioral treatment for anxious youth. Other responsibilities have included therapy training and treatment development.	July, 2000-June, 2004
Predoctoral Intern Eastern Pennsylvania Psychiatric Institute , Allegheny University (APA-Accredited, now Drexel University) Duties included diagnostic interviewing, therapy, behavioral consultation, and psychological testing on each of three rotations: child inpatient unit; partial hospitalization program; and anxiety disorders clinic.	1996-1997

Supervisors: Faye Dixon, Ph.D.; David Bennett, Ph.D.; Edna B. Foa, Ph.D.
 Training Director: Steven Sayers, Ph.D.

Graduate Student Therapist and Diagnostician 1992-1996
Child and Adolescent Anxiety Disorders Clinic, Temple University
 Supervisor: Philip C. Kendall, Ph.D.

Therapist Trainer 1995-1996
Child and Adolescent Anxiety Disorders Clinic, Temple University
 Supervisor: Philip C. Kendall, Ph.D.

Graduate Student Clinician 1993-1995
Psychological Services Center, Temple University
 The Psychological Services Center operates within the Division of Clinical Psychology and places primary emphasis on therapy and assessment. I conducted individual therapy with five women (Caucasian, ages 20 - 46), and one young man (African American, age 12). Treatment length ranged from four months to one year. Presenting problems included anxiety, depression, conduct problems, gender identity issues, and interpersonal difficulties. Supervision has been both team (three hour) and individual (one hour) per week. Supervision included videotaped and audiotaped review with a focus on case conceptualization and planning.
 Supervisors: Robert Fauber, Ph.D.; Jerome Resnick, Ph.D.

Practicum Clinician 1991-1992
Child Guidance Clinic, New London, CT
 The Child Guidance Clinic is an outpatient treatment facility for children and families. I served as a therapist and conducted individual therapy with six children and one parent and co-led group therapies with female adolescents and pre-adolescent boys. Therapy issues included anxiety, conduct problems, parent training, oppositionality, and social withdrawal. I also attended weekly case conferences in which case conceptualizations, treatment plans and goals, and progress were discussed.
 Supervisor: Debra Franklin, M.S.W.

ASSESSMENT EXPERIENCE

Practicum Student 1994-1995
The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia - Division of Oncology, Philadelphia, PA
 The Division of Oncology at The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia is an inpatient and outpatient treatment facility for children with cancer. I conducted neuropsychological assessments for inpatient and outpatient children, ranging in age from 1 to 15 years, and received approximately 1-2 hours of supervision per testing. I was responsible for both preliminary and full reports, as well as the provision of feedback to the children's families. In addition to testing, I was involved in the data management, entry, and analyses required in a study of the cognitive late effects due to total body irradiation in bone marrow transplantation.
 Supervisor: Steven Simms, Ph.D.

Practicum Student 1993
Haverford State Hospital, Haverford, PA
 At Haverford State Hospital, I conducted full batteries of psychiatric inpatient. I received 1-2 hours of supervision for each testing and wrote comprehensive reports for each assessment.
 Supervisor: Marjory Garfield, Ph.D.
