URI ONLINE, Summer 2019

Classics 395
Greek Myth: Gods, Heroes, and Humans

ONLINE
June 24, 2019 – July 26, 2019

Instructor:

Nicholas Sterling, Ph.D.
60 Webster Street
Needham, MA 02494-2408
Telephone: 781-733-0849
E-mail: nicholas.sterling@yahoo.com xenophon98@uri.edu

Required texts:

Ken Dowden, The Uses of Greek Mythology (Routledge, 1992)

(plus supplementary materials to be provided throughout the course)

Course description:

Nature and function of myth in the ancient world and today: ideas of divinity, relationship of divine to human, origins of cosmos and human society, male and female principles, power hierarchies, coming of age, the heroic experience. Theories of myth analysis. Readings in English translation.

Introduction:

The tales of Greek mythology are over twenty-seven hundred years old, surviving from their particular religious and socio-political cultures. This course will explore how the divine and the heroic were accepted by the Greeks as fundamental elements of human and natural existence; we will see the diversity of media through which this heritage was expressed: poetry, prose, stage performance, art and architecture. Once so assimilated, mythology influenced military and literary components, and the role of women, in Greek society.

The course is intended to be an introduction to Greek Mythology. No prior background or reading is expected from the students. My teaching philosophy is to encourage the students to read the primary texts critically and to draw their own observations and conclusions. They are not expected to conduct rigorous scholarly research. Always my own presentation of the texts ought to be seen as one of many possible explanations; absolute knowledge in this field of study is usually not possible, nor even desirable.

Our specific focus, as given in the course title, is GODS, HEROES, and HUMANS. By this, we not only mean the role of gods, heroes, and humans within the myths, but we also refer to the impact of the gods and heroes as told in the myths on the humans who created and told the myths. The Greeks related their myths with a strikingly anthropocentric — man-centered — point of view; as Ken Dowden points out in The Uses of Greek Mythology (Routledge, 1992), p. 133: “Greek myth is more affected by dungeon-masters than by dragons.” This preconception with humanism in Greek myth has the important ramification of creating gods and heroes that are more reflective of human nature than removed from it. As the students read each Chapter, they will be asked repeatedly to observe how closely the myths mirror the real world of the people who told them, and to understand the moral lessons of which the Greeks wanted to persuade their audience.

Goals of the Course:

(a) To introduce the students to a selection of Greek myths related to the larger themes of gods, humans, and heroes.

(b) To allow the students to learn what questions to ask as they read works of literature or view works of art, and what methodology to use to go about answering their questions.

(c) To enable the students to read the textbook critically, to move beyond the textbook and draw their own observations from the ancient readings, and to present these ideas coherently online.

Objectives for Students:

(a) To comprehend the humanistic valence of Greek myth, and to realize that Greek gods and heroes are far more human than super-human. To appreciate the endurance of these works of literature that have survived through twenty-five centuries of war, unrest, and decay.

(b) To distinguish between primary (ancient) and secondary (modern scholarly) literature, and to read both critically. To perceive the different genres of myth through which the Greeks communicated their ideas and philosophical outlook on themselves and the cities and peoples around them.

(c) To address questions posed to them by making observations and drawing conclusions that are based on the evidence of the primary texts. To use their observations to determine the agenda of the authors of the myths: was the myth intended, for instance, to entertain, inform, educate, persuade, or inspire?
(d) To share their findings with other students, and work in a team to discuss and determine the messages which the myths are designed to convey.

(e) To apply their greater understanding of Greek myth to the broader context of the Greek world at large and to the Western world down to our own time.

(f) URI Humanities Learning Outcome: To understand the context and significance of the humanities using theoretical, historical, and experiential perspectives.

(g) URI Global Learning Outcome: To develop and exercise global responsibilities.

Mythology LINKS:

(a) Univ. of Vermont, Hope Greenberg: Ovid Project
   (http://www.uvm.edu/~hag/ovid/index.html)

(b) Encyclopedia Mythica
   (http://www.pantheon.org)

(c) Internet Sacred Text Archive
   (http://www.sacred-texts.com/index.htm)

(d) BookRags
   (http://www.bookrags.com)

(e) PERSEUS
   (http://www.perseus.tufts.edu)

Format:

1. The format for each class session (Monday through Thursday each week EXCEPT Week 2) is that students will get online at least once each class session. By the time they get online, they should have read the assigned readings, and if they have questions about them, they should contact me online or by phone, text, or e-mail IN ADVANCE of the day itself so that they will be able to complete each online assignment with enough understanding of the text. This includes being able to CITE SPECIFIC PASSAGES FROM ANCIENT TEXTS when requested to be able to support their views – an indispensable skill for writing Essays on the Midterm and Final Exam deserving of high grades.

2. The daily procedure online is as follows:

   a. Each student logs on each day class is in session (Monday through Thursday EXCEPT Week 2, when the sessions are Monday through Wednesday and Friday).
b. The students go through the outline in the Calendar and watch all videos under You-Tube Video Links for that day. In addition, they must complete in writing answers to ONE of any Discussion Questions assigned that day and submit their answers in direct print (not attached) on the Sakai Forum. Each student may choose whichever question he/she wishes to answer. For instance, on Tuesday 6/25/19 the student will answer one question from Chapter 1 and one question from Chapter 2. On Wednesday 6/26/19 the student will answer one question from Chapter 3 and one question from Chapter 4; and so on.

c. IMPORTANT: After completing his/her own work, the student is REQUIRED to ENTER A RESPONSE to AT LEAST ONE other student’s entry (preferably multiple such) for that class session. (You may also use that opportunity to add responses to prior sessions, and these can be used to catch up if you were unable to complete this commitment any prior session.) This class is meant to encourage far more dialogue among you the students than between you and me the instructor. For that reason, I will keep my own intervention in the conversations to a relative minimum. Students’ responses will be tabulated on the Gradebook on Sakai. The students’ responses to other students’ entries count as attendance in class for that session. Failure to provide a student response any session counts as an unexcused absence for that session. Entering ZERO student responses through the course will disqualify the student from receiving a Course Grade and the student will automatically receive NW or F.

(Dialogue among students is expected to maintain decorum and mutual respect at all times, with use of appropriate language. Any violation thereof, including but not limited to use of foul, abusive, or insulting language, will be grounds for disciplining the offending student, to the extent of expulsion from the class if that is called for.)

d. On days on which EXAMS are due, the students complete Exams at their own pace, but are expected to complete the Exams if possible in a SINGLE SITTING. Once finished, the students must submit Exams as SINGLE COMPLETE DOCUMENTS in their Dropboxes by the end of each DAY OF THE EXAM to avoid getting Late Deductions (these are assessed, at the Professor’s discretion, as 10 points off for each day late). Exams preferably should be in Word or PDF document format.

e. On days on which  PRESENTATIONS  are due (Characters or the Debate/Trial about Medea), the students may complete their compositions in advance and submit them online on the Sakai Forum in direct print (not attached). These are due in by their DAYS listed on the Calendar below and specified in their descriptions (the file under Assignments).

f. IMPORTANT: As an alternative to written-out answers, students are STRONGLY ENCOURAGED to submit answers in video format on the Forums. Additionally students are encouraged to reach out to me and arrange time with me in person (preferably at URI Providence) or by online chat session to deliver his/her answers or other discussion about the class content. Students who wish to arrange this should reach out to me to schedule mutually convenient times.

3. BE ADVISED!

a. Grade deductions will be taken for unexcused absences (which occur if a student fails to enter at least one response to another student’s entry any session) and for Forum Assignments entered late on the Forums (after the Friday due date listed on each Forum) or missed altogether. The MIDTERM EXAM, if missed, may be made up only at my individual discretion, and only with a 10-point deduction taken off the MIDTERM EXAM grade for each session late.

b. MIDTERM and FINAL EXAMS are to be submitted by Sakai into the Dropboxes. The students MUST get the Exams in to me by the end of the day on the due dates, or start incurring 10-point deductions for late submission. Each Exam will be accessible to students under Resources on Sakai after its Review date.

c. Both the MIDTERM EXAM and the FINAL EXAM include an OPEN-BOOK essay, which counts 60% of the grade and usually runs 3-5 typed pages (1.5 or 2-line space, 12 or 14 font). You may use whatever materials you wish – books, notes, etc. – to prepare the essay. However, you must give proper credit for any source you use – aside from class texts – with a footnote or endnote and bibliography at the end. Additionally, on the first day of class every student must initial the Oath of Academic Honesty stored in the Sakai Forum. Failure to observe Closed-Book protocol constitutes cheating, and failure to provide proper credit for sources used constitutes PLAGIARISM, and….

d. Suspected PLAGIARISM is grounds for failing an Exam.

e. On the more positive side, there are opportunities for EXTRA CREDIT, including (but not limited to) submitting written essays on agreed-upon topics, or doing other online projects. In addition, at my discretion, a student may be allowed one time to retake an unsatisfactory MIDTERM EXAM, with a new improved grade supplanting the older grade completely. Students interested in either of these may contact me. All Extra Credit projects (and make-up projects if permitted) are due in by the last session of the course before the FINAL EXAM, and will NOT be accepted at any time thereafter.

f. Students with documented disabilities should contact me privately about any necessary accommodations.

4. Near the end of the course students will choose a video to watch online or on their own: possibly Jim Henson’s Storyteller: Greek Myths, Percy Jackson, Odyssey, 300, or O Brother, Where Art Thou? (other suggestions are welcome).

Grading: 20% performance in class (including attendance by student response, plus the general impression the student has made on me through the class; however, SEE IMPORTANT NOTES BELOW)

40% MIDTERM EXAM

40% FINAL EXAM

(Bonus Points are added to the total # of course points before the average is taken.)

IMPORTANT: If a student fails to turn in a COMPLETE Midterm, OR makes zero responses to other students’ entries, by the last day of the course before the Final Exam, the student may automatically receive an NW or F grade. This also applies if the student fails to turn in a COMPLETE Final Exam before grades are due in to the University. The instructor reserves the right to enforce this policy strictly or to mitigate it based on extenuating circumstances.

IMPORTANT: The instructor also reserves the right, after calculating a Course Grade mathematically, to shift the result up or down based on his own personal judgement of what the student really deserves, or if there are unusual circumstances warranting the shift.

Eutychoiete, O mathetai! (Good luck, students!)

Syllabus of Assignments

Read Apollodorus, The Library of Greek Mythology and Ken Dowden, The Uses of Greek Mythology, in their entirety in advance of the MIDTERM EXAM.

Week 1

Mon. June 24
Introduction

Tues. June 25
Apollodorus, pgs. 101-103, 130-133
Harris & Platzner, Chapters 1-2
I. The Nature and Function of Myth
SAKAI: Map of Ancient Greece
Athenian Empire 431 B.C.
Greek Myth Glossary
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Reading Material</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Wed. June 26</td>
<td>Apollodorus, pgs. 27-37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harris &amp; Platzner, Chapters 3-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>II. Epic Myths and the Heroic Quest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>A. Hesiod</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thurs. June 27</td>
<td>Apollodorus, pgs. 33-34, 117-118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harris &amp; Platzner, Chapters 5-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>B. Great Goddess; Olympian Family of Zeus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SAKAI: Hesiod Theogony 404-452</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Week 2</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mon. July 1</td>
<td>Apollodorus, pgs. 31-32, 101-103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harris &amp; Platzner, Chapters 7-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>C. Apollo and Dionysus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tues. July 2</td>
<td>Harris &amp; Platzner, Chapter 9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>D. Land of No Return: The Gloomy Kingdom of Hades</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. July 3</td>
<td>Apollodorus, pgs. 48-57, 64-95, 101-103, 116-117,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>136-143, 157-158, 163-164</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harris &amp; Platzner, Chapters 10-11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>E. Heroes and Heroines of Myth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fri. July 5</td>
<td>Apollodorus, pgs. 146-170</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harris &amp; Platzner, Chapters 12-13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>F. The Trojan Saga</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SAKAI: Presentations, Weeks #10-12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Midterm Exam Review Sheet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Week 3</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mon. July 8</td>
<td>Review for MIDTERM EXAM</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tues. July 9</td>
<td>MIDTERM EXAM</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. July 10</td>
<td>Harris &amp; Platzner, Chapter 14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>III. Tragic Heroes and Heroines</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>A. The Theater of Dionysus; Euripides Bacchae</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SAKAI: Handout #1 (Euripides)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thurs. July 11</td>
<td>Apollodorus, pgs. 143-146, 163-164</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td> AESCHYLUS CHARACTER PRESENTATION DUE </td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harris &amp; Platzner, Chapter 15; Dowden, Chapters 1, 5, 8 + pgs. 51-52</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>B. Aeschylus Oresteia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SAKAI: Handout #2 (Aeschylus)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Week 4
Mon. July 15  Apollodorus, pgs. 105-112
 SOPHOCLES CHARACTER PRESENTATION DUE ***
Harris & Platzner, Chapter 16; Dowden, Chapter 2
C. Sophocles Oedipus Rex, Antigone
SAKAI: Handout #3 (Sophocles)

Tues. July 16  Apollodorus, pgs. 48-57, 101-103
 EURIPIDES PRESENTATION/TRIAL DUE ***
Harris & Platzner, Chapter 17; Dowden, Chapters 6, 9
D. Euripides Medea, Bacchae

Wed. July 17  Harris & Platzner, Chapter 18
IV. The World of Roman Myth
A. The Roman Vision
SAKAI: Mythical History of Rome

Thurs. July 18  Harris & Platzner, Chapter 19
B. Virgil Aeneid
SAKAI: Handout #4 (Virgil)
Dramatis Personae of Virgil

Week 5
Mon. July 22  Harris & Platzner, Chapter 20
C. Ovid Metamorphoses
SAKAI: Handout #5 (Ovid)

Tues. July 23  Video
Harris & Platzner, Chapter 21
V. The Western World’s Transformation of Myth

Wed. July 24  Review for FINAL EXAM
SAKAI: Final Exam Study Guide (after class)

Thurs. July 25  FINAL EXAM

The Greek Myth MIDTERM EXAM and FINAL EXAM will each consist of two sections:
the first will be closed-book, the second open-book.