e. Institutional Risk and Compliance Committee Report

(i) Update – April 21, 2022 Committee Meeting

Committee Chair Roby Luna reported that the Committee reviewed its charter and calendar with no extensive objections or discussion. The Committee heard from Kara Larsen, Assistant Vice President, Enterprise Risk Management regarding a Compliance Review
Update and an update on Institutional Risk Assessment and Mitigation Plans.

Abigail Rider, Vice President, Administration and Finance, reported that URI has set up an internal compliance function to help ensure that URI is in compliance with the many regulations and statutes to which it is subject. She reviewed the fundamentals of the University’s Compliance Program. Vice President Rider noted that the University will be volved in a routine USDA Civil Rights Compliance review, outlined the USDA sponsored activities at URI, and listed how the University is preparing for the review.
Vice President Rider reported that in June 2020 the University created an Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) office. Since then, URI has been setting up the elements of an ERM Program. Outreach and education are ongoing and include meetings with deans, department chairs and directors to work with them to identify and assess risks and provide guidance on treatment plans. The intent is to work systematically throughout the University identifying risks, incorporating them into the risk register, determining what the treatment is, and then monitoring the actual action items that are generated as a result.

Board members discussed the work of state auditors, the value of internal audits, and the importance of compliance monitoring. Chair Cook encouraged the Institutional Risk and Compliance Committee to continue this discussion.

f. Student Life and Athletics Committee Report

(i) Update – April 21, 2022 Committee Report

Vice Chair David Martirano reported on activity at the April 21, 2022 Committee meeting. He noted that Ellen Reynolds, Interim Vice President for Student Affairs, talked about the University’s mental health services, the need for more clinicians to meet student demand, collaborative efforts to partner with outside agencies to provide mental health services, and the planned new integrated health and counseling facility.

Vice Chair Martirano reported that Thorr Bjorn, Athletics Director, talked about the hiring of a new men’s basketball coach and the contract extension for the women’s basketball coach. He shared Coach Reiss’ statistics, success, and impact on the URI women’s basketball program. He also highlighted Coach Archie Miller’s statistics and success as a coach, as well as the support the University is providing to build the URI men’s basketball program.

He reported that the Committee considered the charter and calendar. The Committee will discuss the metrics of student success and sports success at the June meeting.

Chair Cook noted the importance of broadly examining metrics within each committee. She suggested the use of metrics to explore how the work of the committees aligns with the strategic plan that the President will share with the Board at the June retreat. She asked that the Governance Committee take up this discussion, looking at goals and how the University measures outcomes.

g. University Advancement and External Affairs Committee Report

(i) Update – April 21, 2022 Committee Meeting

Committee Vice Chair Armand Sabitoni reported that the Committee reviewed its charter and calendar and noted that they are in line with the mission and responsibilities of the Committee. He reported on the search for the Vice President of Communications and Marketing.
Carlos Lopez Estrada, Director of Legislative and Government Relations, reported on efforts at the State House regarding the University. He reported on the success of the remote meeting legislation and continuing efforts on the board composition legislation. He noted that the purchasing legislation is pending in both chambers. He thanked the Board members and President Parlange for their efforts on behalf of the University.

Lauren Burgess, director of Legislative and Government Relations, reported on significant legislative accomplishments at the federal level, including securing roughly $20 million for URI for a variety of projects related to the blue economy and other priorities. She noted that the process to secure funding for the upcoming fiscal year has begun.

Director Burgess highlighted the President’s near constant activity with elected officials, which included members of the General Assembly coming to campus to see the facilities or flying to D.C. to meet with the congressional delegation and the Secretary of Commerce. President Parlange has been testifying at the State House to advocate for funding to support the University’s top priorities, including the Narragansett Bay Campus, the life sciences building and the health services center, for increasing state support of URI’s operating budget and other policy matters. She also stated that the President has been successful in developing relationships with leadership at the State House, the Governor, and with our senators and congressmen. Board members stressed the importance of relationships and the credibility of the message.

Lil Breul O’Rourke, president, URI Foundation and Alumni Engagement, provided an update on the Big Ideas. Bold Plans. The Campaign for the University of Rhode Island and Presidential introduction events. She said $230.6M has been raised to date, with the elevated goal of $300M. She said 29,600 donors to date have contributed, from a broad swath of the community. President O’Rourke spoke of other initiatives, including the Oliver Watson Society, the launch of a faculty/staff campaign and trustee giving. She thanked the trustees for their support and for participating in the President’s events.

This item was incorporated into the Report of the President.

8. REPORT OF THE CHAIR

a. Update on Board Engagement, Meeting Practices and Recent Activities

Chair Margo Cook shared several updates on Board activity. Members of the Board successfully testified in favor of recent legislation, including a bill that gives the Board the flexibility to conduct remote meetings permanently. She presented a new meeting structure that will begin with the June meetings. She reported on the progress of legislation that will lower the Board’s quorum to a simple majority, include the president as a member of the board and codify how URI brings trustee candidates to the Governor for appointment.

Chair Cook reported that the University of Rhode Island Foundation & Alumni Engagement has hosted several events with alumni and Board members, including a Women in Leadership Series featuring Christine Heenan and Karina Edmonds and Presidential introductory events spanning Florida to New York. Chair Cook also reiterated opportunities for engagement between the Board and students, including through the Career Connect Program, internships, and participation in Commencement. Chair Cook concluded by stressing the importance of the Board in two critical areas, 1) hiring the president and 2) helping to shape the 10-year strategic plan, which will require careful input and consideration from all stakeholders.
9. REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

a. Update on Strategic Planning Process

b. Presidential Priorities

President Parlange began his report with the formal University of Rhode Island Land Acknowledgement Statement:

The University of Rhode Island occupies the traditional stomping ground of the Narragansett Nation and the Niantic People. We honor and respect the enduring and continuing relationship between the Indigenous people and this land by teaching and learning more about their history and present-day communities and by becoming stewards of the land we, too, inhabit.

President Parlange’s presentation can be found here. He gave an update on University life after completing eight months at URI. He reported that enrollment numbers are on a strong upward trajectory, and he has met many new, excited students at the University Welcome Days. He continues to meet with faculty, staff, alumni, and students.

The President reported that he has spent many hours with the Governor and state legislators, traveling to Washington, D.C., to meet with senators and representatives, as well as the U.S. Secretary of Commerce, Gina Raimondo, noting that the University is fortunate to have URI champions in many of its elected leaders. He assured the Board that he will continue to forge and strengthen those partnerships.

President Parlange stated that listening to so many different stakeholders in the community over the past several months has been a true joy, but it has also highlighted a significant factor that has implications for the University: institutional health. He believes that URI serves a distinct and valuable role in the state. As the flagship public research university, URI provides access, research, and societal and economic benefits to all communities in Rhode Island, but it comes at a significant cost. For those reasons, URI is engaging in a multi-pronged approach to set the University on a sustainable and healthy financial path forward. This approach will leverage fundraising (URI has raised its capital campaign goal to $300 million), seek an increased operating budget from the state, pursue federal funding through the American Rescue Plan Act (URI has asked for $308.2M), and request a general obligation bond (URI will need $157.5M for revitalization of the Narragansett Bay campus). With these investments, URI can continue to offer world-class education while raising its profile in scholarship and research. The University of Rhode Island can be a hub of entrepreneurial activity that brings transformative innovation, business, industry, partnerships, and critical, competitive funding to the state.

President Parlange concluded his report by saying we are building a University for the future, and he is grateful to everyone in the community who has participated in a community forum as part of URI’s strategic planning process. The Steering Committee has identified four themes, and the community’s insight into these areas of focus has been invaluable. He reported that URI will continue to hold community forums and work through the summer to finalize a draft of the plan. Information continues to be shared on URI’s website.
