

Nursing

A career in nursing allows you to be at the center of patient care. There are many fields to specialize in such as pediatrics, maternity, emergency, cardiac, acute care, geriatrics, psychiatric, and oncology to name a few. You can work in a variety of settings such as hospitals, primary care, nursing homes, outpatient clinics, schools, community health centers and many others. If you are considering to advance in your career as a nurse manager, practitioner, or administrator you will need an advanced degree such as a Master's in Nursing, or DNP (Doctor of Nursing Practice).

Hospitals
Outpatient Clinics
Nursing Homes
Community Health Centers
School/Universities
Primary Care offices
Correctional Facilities

COMMON EMPLOYERS

PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

American Association of Colleges of Nursing
American Association of Nurse Anesthetists
American Nurses Association
American Telemedicine Association
National Council of State Boards of Nursing
Nursing Society

STRATEGIES ON ENTERING THE FIELD

- Many nurses will work rotating shifts including nights, weekends, and holidays so you must be prepared for this type of schedule.
- Gain experience as a CNA, EMT, or Direct Care Professional. The majority of employers want to see some kind of experience other than clinical rotations on your resume. This shows commitment to the field and profession.