In Response to Covid-19 Pandemic

The University of Rhode Island contractor identified below is contractually obligated to provide services to the University which require (or will require) the contractor either (a) to perform services "on-site" upon or in grounds or buildings owned or controlled by the University, or (b) to meet, interact in-person with, or work in close proximity to, University employees or students, or other URI agents, representatives or contractors. Such firm is considered a "Covered Contractor" hereunder.

In recognition of the COVID-19 Pandemic — which the Center for Disease Control has called "a public health emergency of international concern," The President has declared "a national emergency," and the Governor of Rhode Island has declared a "disaster emergency" which constitutes "an immediate public health threat to the elderly and those with underlying health conditions" — the University is taking all appropriate steps to protect the health of its students and employees (and its agents, representatives and contractors), as well as all other persons with whom they will come into contact, by appropriately limiting their exposure to the coronavirus, and to persons who might be carriers of the coronavirus. These steps include imposing, and enforcing, appropriate workplace guidelines and restrictions on our employees, to ensure that they are taking all appropriate steps to protect themselves from possible infection by the Covid-19 Virus, and to minimize the possibility of them (if they are or may be carriers of the Covid-19 virus) infecting any of their co-workers, or other individuals with whom they may come in contact in connection with their University related duties and activities. The URI Workplace Guidelines and Restrictions currently in place, and which incorporate but are not limited to the requirements of applicable laws and Rhode Island Executive Orders, include the following:

If the employee develops signs of illness within 14 days of returning to the U.S., such as cough, fever, or shortness of breath, the employee is advised to call their healthcare provider. Self-quarantine shall be in accordance with RIDOH Instructions posted at: <https://health.ri.gov/diseases/ncov2019/>
3. The Contractor/Subcontractor must stay informed of, and ensure that it and its employees strictly adhere to all other applicable laws, regulations and Executive Orders ("EOs") that relate in any way to Covid-19 (including but not limited to R.I. EOs that relate to: the posting of notices in the workplace, limitations on the use of employees who reside in other states).
4. Employees who are sick are required to stay from work.
5. If a member of an employee's household, or a co-worker or client of an employee with whom the employee has shared a workspace or come into contact, has tested positive for Covid-19, or is in preventative quarantine due to a possible "exposure" to Covid-19, the employee must notify his/her employer, and immediately self-quarantine for fourteen (14) days.
6. At all times during work, URI employees are strongly advised to follow the adhere the following infection-control guidelines and practices:
