

Materials:

Index Cards

Objective:

Allows students to get to know each other while practicing their listening and presentation skills.

Instructions:

Divide group into pairs of students who do not know each other well. Instruct students to interview each other for the next five minutes. After interviews are complete ask each student to introduce their partner to the class.

The index cards allow students to take notes and have something to read from when they are speaking to the class.

Variation:

Divide the group into pairs. Have each person “tell” their partner three things about themselves without talking. After each pair is done, have the partners introduce each other and share the three facts with the whole group.
